Driscoll's
Only the Finest Berries

THE DRISCOLL'S DIFFERENCE

Blueberries are the newest berry to join the Driscoll's family. We started growing them in the early 1990s. Driscoll's has now patented many blueberry varieties, which means that these wonderfully delicious blueberries can only be found in a Driscoll's package. Plump and juicy, with just the right balance of sweetness and tartness, each blueberry must meet our high quality standards. In other words, each Driscoll's Blueberry must be outstanding in all regards. And of course, our blueberries are grown naturally and never genetically modified.
