

“This isn’t just a place
to grow produce.
It’s a place to cultivate dreams.”

Kamal Bell is the proud owner of Sankofa Farms, a thriving family farm that employs his community. He knows food insecurity impacts minority groups. But thanks to accessible and affordable broadband, he can provide a food source to local food deserts, and teach Black youth about agriculture and STEM.

We are dedicated to helping close the digital divide with a $2 billion, 3-year commitment, so we can connect low-income families like the ones Kamal works with, and more communities with their American Dream.
